

London Deanery 'Excellence in Education' Innovation Awards Entry Form

To promote 'Excellence in Education' and innovation in educational methods we invite clinical educators to highlight their approaches to simulation-based and technology-enhanced postgraduate medical education undertaken between March 2009 and March 2010.

We will reward educational excellence and innovation promoting patient safety and high-quality clinical care.

The deadline for entries is the 19th of February 2010.

The winners will be presented with their award at the London Deanery's Simulation Conference, 'Innovation in Education – the engine for change', on the 1st of March.

Title of project / training initiative:
Name of lead award entrant:
Job Title:
Trust:
Email address:
Telephone number:

Please provide details of any staff and/or academic institutions also involved in the delivery of this project.

Please provide a summary of your project (maximum of 250 words) outlining aims and objectives, what has been achieved and how it promotes innovation. Any supporting evidence, such as relevant feedback or educational materials can also be submitted.

Please list any presentations and demonstrations (both national and international) given in support of this initiative:

Please list any abstracts and papers submitted in support of this initiative and where they have been published. Please ensure that copies are also submitted.

Please list any additional publicity or reports this initiative has generated, for example at a Trust level, at a national level or on television.

Submissions should be emailed to David Marston, the STeLI Administrator – david.marston@londondeanery.ac.uk. Entries should include your name, Trust and full contact details.